

Two new products from Webak

AUSTRIAN gaming machine manufacturer Webak, which is currently celebrating its 25th anniversary year, launched two new products at ATEI.

The company presented its new video slot, Neil's Treasure, as well as a new double monitor cabinet, which will soon be ready for serial production. "Both were accepted very well," said Kurt Kreiner, CEO. "We received a fantastic response because of our approval by PTB Berlin, which we obtained only about two weeks prior to the show."

Webak was particularly upbeat about the PTB approval, which has given the company access to the key German market. "The German testing institute in Berlin has been very accommodating to us as a foreign company," said Kreiner.

"Now we as a smaller company can also deliver and sell to Germany - like the big players in the industry - in accordance with the German laws." Webak, however, is not stopping at the German market. The group sees a number of new avenues opening up in the near future. IG30

Eveline and Kurt Kreiner of Webak